Rail Read Bill for a "valuable consideration,"—when politicians have their principles salaried and their convictions under a stipend; it is graifying to observe the exalled stand taken by our distinguished Senator. It reminds one of his Revolutionary Sires. Why does not this Merezzes of the Territorial Committee traffic In his office—why does be not from his high estate pluck away the people's wealth in singling out their rich domains to his own appropriation? "For the reason that he would not allow his ensures a protect for aging his public

Chairman from pillaging the public treasury A lofty sense of official purity, delicately blended with the fear that he is watched, ha The integrity of the Sonate and the scrutiny of his enemies has conquered his weakness for Fort Snelling Reservations. What a distressing instance of compulser virtue—honesty under duress. Remove the only obstacle to robbery—the danger of discovery, and what becomes of this upright Judge's aversion to spoils?

The Gazar Danocear, is dependent, according to his own confession, upon his enemies for his sacrincing forbearance so let his public actions be influenced by his private interests. A. H. FETERS, Agent. Richest Veivet Robes of Mr. Muntz withdrew. Had he stood, the Conservative candidate would have profited by the split in the Liberal party, and would probably have been returned. But an this split was pin, so to speak, hors du sended by the withdrawal of the Liberal candidate, the Censervative has wisely withdrawn too, and Mr. Bright walks the course. There is, at first sight, something rather odd in the spectacle of an apostle of both peace and temperance being returned for a town like Birmingham, where the beer-sellers and the gun-makers are so strong. But Mr. Bright is not only a peace and temperance man—he is a free-trader, and thus he manages to conciliate the two classes who are his natural enemics. The explanation is easy. Government has for several years endeavored to make itself, in the matter of small-arms, independent of Birmingham, and to establish gun factories of its own. As a free-trader, Mr. Apropos of the Spring—have you heard. The quis of a gentleman here on a pomposu M. O., who averred. That the name was remarkable queee. That the name was remarkable queee. Our newspapers, as you will have seen, anounce the death of Mr. Delate, the ex-editor of "The Times." You must not confound him (said the mistake is often committed even here) with his son, the younger Delane, who is the present editor, or director-general, of "The Times." Seldom, indeed, has it occurred that father and son have wielded in succession such a gigantic power. The elder Delane was editor of "The Times" from the Reforms Bill doward till 1847, when the Peelites bought "The Morning Chronicle," appointed him its editor, and farnished him with funds ample even for the lodulgence of his princely liberality in newspaper matters. But the great financier of "The Chronicle," in its Peelite days, Mr. Beresford Hope, the present Member for Maldstone, and son of Anastasius Hope, insisted on its supporting Puseyisim; and all the talent of Philip Harwood, Venables, Shirley Brooks (the novelist) and Abraham Hayward (the Edinburgh Reviewer and translator of "Banari") could not prevail on John Bull to swallow the Puseyis and Chronicle," and Exchange, Passage & Collecting Office Alexanor # alexr, 48.

Several of our citizens have visited Lasalle recently, and have returned, bringing with them specimens of the mineral riches of this coal basin. Mr. Wiard has left with a specimens of the coal, which appears to be of the best quality. It is quite free from impurities, very light, and the tracture resembles antractic coal. It burns freely, for manufacturing purposes appears to be as good as any bitminous coal, and has been tested at Chicago, and found to be good. The mines are now being opened, eslate having been sunk 200 feet. The first coal stratum which they penetrated is four feet in thickness; the next is six feet and the last is four feet, making a total thickness of fourteen feet. As this is all workable by penetraing she two-hundred feet, the facility of mining is great, when we take into account the thickness of the strata. These mines are now just being opened, and companies are now prenared to furnish coal to the smount of Dealers will please and their orders to us at as as Books will be forwarded except on apecial order.

"The Chronicle" failed financially, and has at last passed into the hands of a Hebrew capitalist, who works it, they say, so as to assist his stock-jobbing operations on the Paris Bourse. Long before this epoch of degradation the elder Delane of course had quitted "The Chronicle." "The Times" bid for his services. but he had left it after a quarrel, and was too proud to return it. However, his old claims easily procured him the Treasurership of the Kent County Courts. a snug and pretty lucrative sinecure, of the same kind as that which Mr. Disraeli, when Chancellor of the Exchequer, bestowed upon his brother James. A LARGE LOT BANKERS' DESKS. now prepared to furnish coal to the amount of fifty-two tons perday for this point if necessary. We understand that a gentleman of this city is about entering into this rade, and that he will be able to deliver coal to consumers at this point at $7 per ton, at present, with a prospect of a further reduction when new anticipated facilities for getting it are perfected.

Mr. Wiard also presents anywith specimens of the glass sand stone used for the manufacture of glass which has just occu commenced at La Salle. Also fire clay, roofing slate and from ore; all of which we been speaking, and its penetrated by the two hundred feet shaft which has been sunk.

The iron ore is a very fine specimen of the kidney variety, and we are informed by Mr. Wiard that it is quite abundant as a regular stratification in this mine, and is cassily procured.

Prom these various specimens of minerals we have a much higher opinion of the La Salle coal basin than we have ever before entertained, and we think it fortune that Janesville is only about ninety miles in . direct line from the point where the coal is mined, and that railroads are now being built which will in a shorter than the present railroad route.

This question of cheep field is a visal one for the prosperity of this city, and should be thoroughly investigated. It might be well for our citizens to take an interest in some of the mines by subscribing for stock, as we understand there are opportunities. ELBGANT EMBROIDERIES. The greatest novelty in literature (greater than Mr. Gladstone's pressing Homeric paper in the new number of the Querterly, as installment it is said of an elaborate work upon humer) is Mrs. Newion Crosland's "Light in the Valley," an exposition of her experience in Spiritualism. Mrs. N. Crosland may be better known, perhaps, by her maiden name of Oamlia Toulriin, noder which she was long a prolific contributor to our esthetic periodicals. Mrs. Crosland to our esthetic periodicals, Mrs. Crosland work was heralded by one from the pen of her husband, detailing the steps by which they were naturally converted to a faith in Spiritualism, but this was greeted with a ridicular which will not impair the reception of anything from his wife's graceful and familiar pon. After a temporary discredit, spiritualism in Loudon is coming again into vogue.
